STUDENT HEALTH CENTER GETS GO AHEAD APPROVAL TO BEGIN CONSTRUCTION

Word received by the College from the Public Works Board that it does not need to authorize an augmentation of funds necessary to finance construction of the Student Health Center, has cleared the way for work to begin on the building.

The approximate $100,000 needed to bring total funds up to the contract price will be provided from the Student Health Services budget of the California State University and Colleges Trustees.

Vice President J. K. Thomas states that he is gratified that the plans were unchanged even though the cost was greater than anticipated. The Trustees have allowed the College to construct the building as originally designed. Dr. Thomas said that a job start meeting is being scheduled next week between the contractor and his subcontractors and the Chancellor's and College's representatives. The job should take approximately a year to complete.

Bids on the building were opened September 15, with a low bid of $855,200 submitted by K. L. Neff Construction of Ontario. However, since the bid was over the $749,000 available through accumulated student fees, additional funds had to be found.

The 10,000 sq. ft. building of pre-cast concrete panel construction will be located immediately north of the Commons above the outdoor courtyard.

According to Dr. Ross Ballard who heads the Student Health Center, the location of the new building is a definite plus. "It will be centered in an area

Music

Three outstanding musical events will hit the campus before the end of the Fall Term.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE - First is a performance by the College Jazz Ensemble next Sunday evening, December 4. Paul Curnow, Music Instructor, will direct the group in a variety of pieces-- funky jazz, slow melodies, sax solo, and the popular theme from "MASH". The program begins at 7:30 in the Recital Hall. Free.

CHORAL CONCERT - Songs of Christmas will be highlighted in the College Concert Choir and Chamber Singers concert to be presented Wednesday, December 7 at 8:15 p.m. This is the first performance by the group in the Recital Hall of the Creative Arts Building. Directed by Loren Filbeck, Assoc. Prof., Music, the singers will celebrate the spirit of the holiday season with three Christmas songs sung in Latin. Also featured are a trio of comic pieces and other symbolic selections. Admission is $1.50 per person. Children and students with identification admitted free. Call 7454 for information.

of greater student activity and be more accessible to the students. Another plus is that we will have privacy for the patients." He adds "We will also have enough room so that we can have a future pharmacy, lab, complete examining rooms and more definitive clinical care. The new facility will enable us to offer everything that larger college health centers do, except hospitalization." Dr. Ballard emphasized that for as little as $48 a year students can purchase supplemental policies which will provide complete coverage in case of serious illness which requires hospitalization.

"We are extremely excited about the building and look forward to being able to give students the medical coverage that we feel should be provided by an up-to-date health center," he said.

STUDENTS FORM TOURING THEATRE GROUP TO PERFORM TO LOCAL SCHOOL CHILDREN

A volunteer troupe of CSCSB students is performing selections from children's literature to elementary and junior high school students.

Formed under the direction of Sue Rudisill, Assoc. Prof., Drama, "The Imagination Players" was organized to introduce youngsters to children's literature, performed Reader's Theatre style, and introduce teachers to Reader's Theatre techniques that are useful in the classroom.

Volunteer students from Oral Interpretation and Creative Dramatics classes donated their free time to rehearse six short stories. So far the company has put in over 75 rehearsal hours.

The players had their premiere performance in Coronita Elementary School in Corona, where they delighted an audience of 650 children. Following engagements were played to over a dozen other school audiences where they were enthusiastically received by wide-eyed youngsters, including a school for the mentally retarded. The players, who travel via van and car, with their stools and costume pieces, enjoy the uninhibited response of the children as much as their young audiences delight in their performances.
